

How it Works

When a critical event occurs, your teams are rapidly mobilized through alert notifications, and an online virtual command center is automatically created from a template for that type of event.

Within the command center, team members coordinate every aspect of the response.

They view and post messages, assign and monitor tasks, share any type of file, verify people's real-time status, transmit additional instructions, track response progress, and more.

A clear audit trail is kept of all events, communications and files, creating an invaluable record for post-response analysis and regulatory compliance.

Resolve Critical Incidents Faster and More Effectively

Virtual Command Center

MissionMode's Situation Center is a unique combination of incident management and emergency notification. This online command center excels at coordinating any type of urgent event, from business interruptions to major disasters. It's also very easy to use, which is crucial during an incident.

The Situation Center serves as a secure hub for managing everything related to an incident—resources, communications, tasks, team status, and more. People involved in the response can view and contribute vital information at any time, from any location. It's the most effective way to coordinate actions during high-stress events.

Easy Alert Notification

Our Emergency Notification System increases the speed and accuracy of crisis communications. Within seconds, alerts and instructions are delivered to any number of people through nearly any type of voice or text device. More than just notification, this system gives you the real-time status of every message.

Improving Business Continuity and Resilience

The Situation Center is also used to conduct realistic exercises, as if a crisis were actually in progress. Templates can be created for common types of events and used for exercises and actual incidents.

With comprehensive up-to-date information, decision-makers quickly assess situations and make informed decisions.

Proven in Countless Crises and Operational Incidents
